

Table of Contents

1 Section 1: What You Should Know Before You Start Selling Insurance

- 1 Insurance distribution is changing rapidly
- 2 Bank insurance fee income is on the rise
- 3 Others have gone before you (and made mistakes you can learn from)
- 4 Running an insurance backroom is harder than you think
- 4 Profitability won't happen overnight
- 4 Now is the time to start selling insurance
- 5 Banks will be the next independent insurance agent

7 Section 2: Choosing a Distribution Method

- 7 Universal issues
- 7 Buying an agency
- 8 Building your own agency
- 9 Outsourcing

13 Section 3: Getting Your Agency Started

- 13 Buying an agency
 - 13 Find the right agency to acquire
 - 14 Determine the purchase price
 - 15 Calculate an ROI
 - 15 Draft a contract
- 16 Building an agency
 - 16 Hire an insurance manager
 - 17 License the agency and the agents
 - 17 Obtain carrier contracts
 - 19 Hire the staff
 - 19 Put an insurance accounting system in place
 - 19 Calculate time and resources
- 20 Outsourcing
 - 20 Select an outsourced agency
 - 21 Hire onsite agents

23 Section 4: Contracts and Regulations

- 23 Hire an insurance attorney
- 23 Obtain needed contracts
- 25 Get licensed
- 26 Determine who owns your bank customer relationship
- 28 Determine how commissions will be paid
- 28 Be clear on revenue sharing
- 29 Put insurance anti-tying measures in place
- 30 Establish privacy procedures

33 Section 5: Maximizing Insurance Sales

- 33 Sell through multiple channels
- 39 Integrate the agency
- 40 Set up an efficient backroom—or outsource it
- 42 Match products to your customer base
- 45 Case Study 1: Advantages of Onsite Agents
- 47 Case Study 2: The Need for Multiple Carriers
- 51 Case Study 3: Outsourcing a Backroom
- 53 Appendix A: Specialist Referrals
- 57 Appendix B: Sample Purchase Agreements
- 87 Appendix C: Sample Joint Marketing Agreement
- 97 Appendix D: Confidentiality and Non-Solicitation Agreement
- 101 Appendix E: Agent Compensation